

CAMP/OFFSHORE SUPPORT ROLES

The following role types provide support to the efficient operation of a remote camp site and/or offshore facility. Most roles operate on a Fly In, Fly Out basis to a remote camp site and not always on an even time roster.

Obtaining a support role is one of the most effective ways of 'getting a foot in the door'. Living and working on a remote site is invaluable experience and gives you access to the operation and key people to seek other roles, should you wish. Whilst the salaries are lower than those working in operational roles, they will typically be higher than counterparts working in similar roles in non-mining or oil and gas establishments/environments and you have the benefit of increased time off, and flights, accommodation and meals whilst at work provided.

As a minimum, you will need to be 18 years of age and have a current driver's license, preferably manual.
